

The Gentle Use of Power
July 20, 2003

Dear Darlene:

You may remember several weeks ago when I asked you to locate a ring which my daughter had lost. You told me to have her look in the bedcovers on the left side of her bed. She took the bedding off the bed and searched everywhere with no success. However, yesterday she was reorganizing her closet and took her bed comforter from the floor of the closet, shook it out to refold it and out fell the missing ring. She then realized that that was the comforter that had been on the bed when she first realized her ring was missing. So, many thanks. You were right .

Glad you are out there for all those missing objects our family misplaces on a regular basis.

Love and light,

MollieO
